When you are having your lucky spell you cannot be wrong. You arrive at the office on the big day to find the boss has slipped the extra five per week he has been tromising so long in the pay envelops. Long ago you gave up hope, placing the five in the class of promises popular with candidates before election. Comes the lucky suell and with it the long desired raise moment tootte like endless opulence.

That evening the wife has planked steak and sweet potatoes Southern for dinner. If there is one thing you like better than the raise it is planked steak and sweet potatoes S uthern. The next morning the postman leaves a message bearing the joyous tidings you have inherited a few thousand dollars from the distant cousin you had long since forgotten. On your way to work you find a $10 bill flying around the sidewalk without any visible chaperon. The senior partner invites you to luncheon and confides to you that your work is highly eatisfactory and you are in line for a junior partnership.

If only you could rush up and kiss the merry old world on the brow! Great to be alive. Oh, for a thousand thousand years of it.

Enjoy the shining hour of sun. Right around the corner crouches another spell waiting to spring upon you and push down all the brakes. The other fellow is in the luckless orbit right now. Life is giving him a close

The other fellow met a girl no: long ago. She was the first girl he had met and liked for a long time The minute he saw her he felt the message being telegraphed along to his heart that she was one of the very few. He tried to make her underfew. He tried to make her under-stand this vibration, which could nothing but that their souls were attuned. Not a chance in a The luckless spell was on. She could not see him with a pair she departs the family will be getting along as harmoniously as a flock of wild leopards.
